Best of Bucks 2019: The Prancing Peacock Yoga Studio
Awarded Honor for Ninth Consecutive Year

Yardley, PA – September 23, 2019 – The Prancing Peacock Yoga Studio today announced it has been selected as a Best of Bucks 2019 contest winner in the Beauty & Health category. Each year, hundreds of thousands of Bucks County residents cast their vote for their favorite local businesses spanning ten categories: Beauty & Health, Food & Beverage, Kids & Family, Home & Garden, Industry Leaders, Services, Shopping, Things to Do, Vehicle Dealers & Services, and Workplace. The Prancing Peacock won ‘Best Of’ for the Pilates/Yoga subdivision. This marks the studio’s ninth consecutive year as the recipient of this award.

Liz Conner, Owner of The Prancing Peacock comments, “We are so unbelievably thrilled and honored to receive this award again. The sheer fact that so many in our community voted for us is humbling and is further validation that what we are offering here is truly special.” Conner continues, “It’s incredibly important for us to stay connected to our community. That’s why we’re constantly seeking ways to expand and grow our offerings so that anyone – whether they’re a seasoned yogi or brand new to the practice – feels a complete sense of comfort and belonging when they walk through our doors. This was my number one goal when I founded the studio more than 15 years ago and remains to this day.”

Award-winning, woman-owned, and entirely family-operated, The Prancing Peacock’s flagship studio in Yardley sits on a bucolic farm away from the bustle of everyday life. The second (opened just four years ago) is a sprawling estate-turned-yoga-retreat center conveniently located between the Bucks County suburbs and Philadelphia’s bustling city center. Dedicated to giving back to the community it serves, The Prancing Peacock maintains numerous community partnerships and donation-based classes to address specific needs in the Delaware Valley.
